

Hi, New Neighbor!

Narragansett Brewery's new waterfront location in India Point Park is holding its official grand opening celebration, August 5 - 7. There will be three days of fun-filled events, complete with music, food and, of course, beer releases.

Mark Hellendrung, CEO of Narragansett Beer said, "We're all pretty excited this week for our grand opening! This will be the first time that we'll be able to have a full line-up of music and food trucks, so it should be an awesome week. We'll also be showcasing the wide variety of great beer that the team has been brewing with three different sours for Sour Slam on Thursday and six unique IPAs on Friday for National IPA Day."

August 5, 4 - 9pm: Hollow Turtle, a folk/rock band from Warren will perform. Trap Box PVD will be dishing out modern Latin Eats, including burgers, sandwiches and tacos. And Gansett will release their Sour Slam.

August 6, Noon - 10pm: Isabella Materra will be performing, and Bonetown Burger and BBQ will be providing their signature traditional BBQ with heavy metal influences. In honor of National IPA Day, 'Gansett is launching Electric Dave IPA, named after the project manager from Advance Electric who made the brewery a reality. The beer pays homage to all who worked hard through the pandemic to make the new brewery possible.

Grand Opening Party! August 7, noon - 10pm: Sharks Come Cruisin' will perform sea shanties by the sea that you'll want to sing along to, 'Gansett in hand. Everyone's favorite Saugy Franks will be serving up traditional New England hot dogs.
